The Future of Software Is Hosted

Your company relies heavily on its financial management and ERP solutions for successful day-to-day operations. As your business grows, traditional technology solutions can be more of a hindrance than a tool. Expensive upgrades to software and hardware, increased time spent administering and maintaining your network, ongoing cybersecurity threats, and system downtimes can negatively impact your bottom line.

agrē Hosted services can simplify your entire information technology situation and reduce your technology expenses to a predictable monthly fee. By leveraging agrē software as a service (SaaS), you can focus on your customers and business. Let Tronia's IT experts manage and maintain your agrē software and ensure your data is hosted at a secure, state of the art, redundant data center. agrē Hosted services deliver complete administration and maintenance of your agrē solution; ensuring faster issue resolution, offsite, redundant data back-ups for complete disaster recovery, top tier cyber security protocols, seamless upgrades, and automatic application of critical software patches.

With solutions that are up-to-date, available, and managed for performance by Tronia's experts, your business can focus on its operations instead of its ERP software technology, helping you achieve a greater return on your technology investment.

By implementing agrē Hosted in your organization, you can spend less time and money in managing software and invest your resources on growing your business.
